EXTRA POLICE FOR HALLOWE'EN

Chief of Police Jack Grant wishes a reminder that he will not stand for any destructive pranks that have been common on the eve of Halloween. Extra men have been engaged to police the residence district and offenders will be arrested and put where they will have plenty of time to think over their misdeeds. The chief was a boy himself some time back in the early sixties and he has a wholesome regard for the boys of youth but he will not stand for that sort of so-called fun which means damage to the property of householders. Last year the county was put to great expense in restoring damaged property and taxpayers resented a war that caused the county administration to issue an arbitrary order that no property damage would be tolerated this year.
